

Sean McGivern organically farms about 1000 acres of small grains and oil seeds and raises over 100 cattle, 25 sows, and 500 laying hens. In addition, he pasture raises meat birds and turkeys and keeps a purebred flock of Suffolk breeding ewes. Grass Roots Organics Eco Farm & Market value adds everything produced on the farm and sells it at an on-farm retail store, which is open six days per week. With eight full-time employees, Sean is able to take on a lot of speaking engagements, consulting and mentoring work. Some past and current roles include: President of Grey County Farmers Union, mentor for Farmers Growing Farmers, Director for Grey Bruce Ag and Culinary Association, and Township rep for Grey Country Cattlemens Association. Sean has been farming organically for ten years.
