

Grow Organic

Organic Gardening Tips from Diversity Gardens

Winter 2009

Snow, snow and more snow! At Diversity Gardens throughout January our focus is on keeping snow removed from the greenhouse so it doesn't cave in under the weight. Its one of those things about having a plastic hoop house that you don't really think about at the beginning – but it becomes a pretty important - and not really very enjoyable - task.

January is a great time to be ordering seeds. If you aren't already on the mailing list for seed companies, its easier all the time to shop on line. This year at Diversity Gardens we are building a new garden focused on heritage produce. We are also a certified organic farm so that means we order only certified organic seed. You can show your solidarity for organic producers and experiment with some new flower and vegetable varieties at the same time.

Try some of these local seed sources:

Seeds of Diversity - <http://www.seeds.ca/>

William Dam Seeds - <http://www.damseeds.ca>

Greta's Organic Gardens - <http://www.seeds-organic.com/>

Agrestal Organic and Heritage Seeds - <http://www.agrestalseeds.com/>

Clover Roads Organic Farm - <http://www.cloverroads.com/>

The Cottage Gardener - <http://www.cottagegardener.com/>

Ecogenesis - <http://www.ecogenesis.ca/>

Florabunda Seeds - <http://www.florabundaseeds.com/>

Terra Edibles - <http://www.terraedibles.ca/>

Upper Canada Seeds - <http://www.uppercanadaseeds.ca/>

Urban Harvest Garden Alternatives - <http://www.uharvest.ca/>

Wildsome Gardens - <http://www.wildsomegardens.ca/>

Ontario Seed Company - <http://www.oscseeds.com/>

